Thaddeus (Tadeusz) Kwilosz and Frances Czarnecki (Franciszka Czarnecka) lived in Osobnica, which is its own Catholic parish, located in southeast Poland near Jaslo.

Church records earlier than 1890 are not available online in digitized format. Research is ongoing to fully reconstruct the Kwilosz family.

Thaddeus Kwilosz and Frances Czarnecki had a daughter Lucy (Łucja), who married Joachim Byczek in Osobnica in 1804. The marriage record, which did not provide an address for either bride or groom, shows that Lucy was born about 1787 (17 years old on the marriage record). Joachim Byczek and Lucy Kwilosz are Michael E. Byczek's 4x-great-grandparents.

There is uncertainty about whether the surname Acela evolved into Kwilosz around the time that Lucy was born. That particular spelling seems unusual because it has a Latin, Italian, or Spanish appearance. Since the Osobnica church records were written in Latin, it's possible that whoever wrote these entries interpreted a Polish surname using Latin influences. The spelling difference may reflect Latinized transcription of a Polish/Slavic surname.

The maiden name of Frances may have been Czarny as the name was written similar to Czarniecki or Czarnecki. Until more information is verified, Czarnecki is used here as the standardized surname for genealogical purposes..

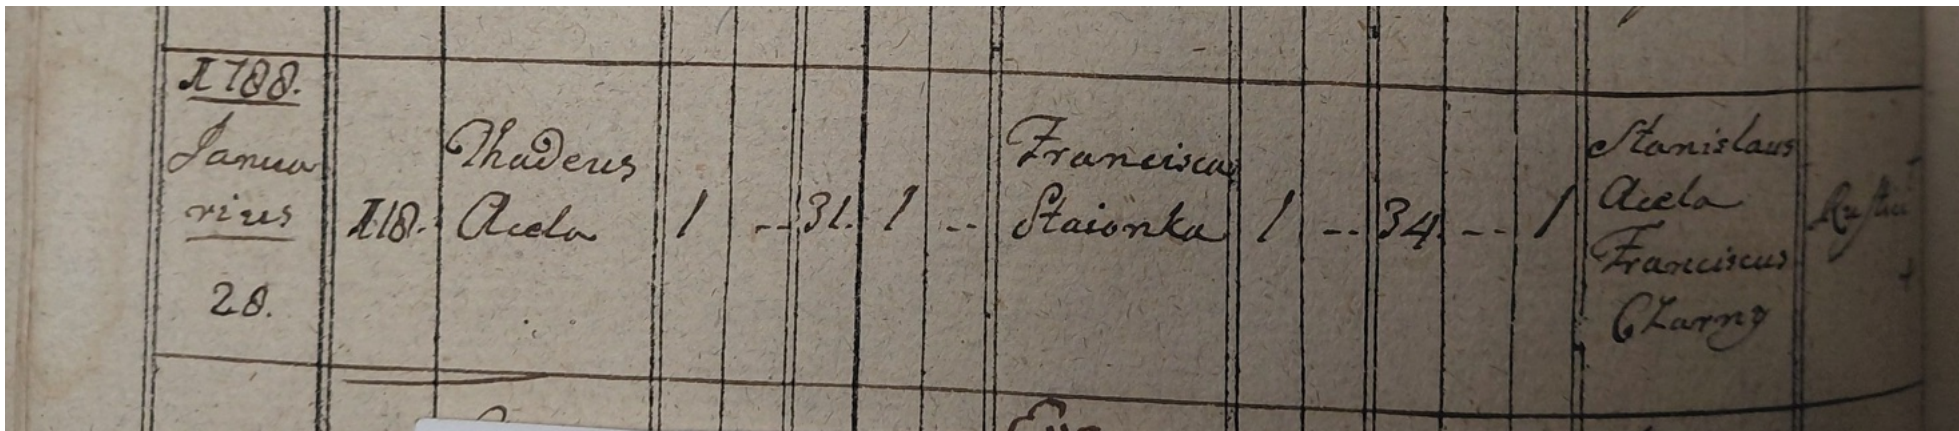

Joachim Byczek and Lucy Kwilosz had three known children who were all born at House #118 Osobnica from 1809-1813. John (Jan) Kwilosz owned House #118, as shown in the 1788 and 1820 land records (included in a separate documentary). Documents show that Joachim Byczek became co-owner with Jan Kwilosz. The Byczek family inherited full ownership of the farm by the 1850s.

It is unclear whether the John Kwilosz listed in the 1788 and 1820 land records was the same individual or successive owners with the same name. The land records do not include Thaddeus Kwilosz. It is possible that John Kwilosz was Lucy's grandfather or uncle. Thaddeus Kwilosz may have already passed away.

Lucy (Kwilosz) Byczek married Frank (Franciszek) Janiga on 10/24/1830 in Osobnica after Joachim's death in 1829. Lucy was listed as 41 years old. These two marriage records (1804 and 1830) are the only documents that show when Lucy was born. The two records imply a range of 1787-1789.

There is a marriage record in 1788 listed for House #118 in Osobnica between Thaddeus Acela and Frances Staionka. Thaddeus had not previously been married. Frances was a widow. Therefore, the surname Staionka was most likely her married name. Thaddeus was 31 years old and Frances was listed as 34. This implies an estimated year of birth for Thaddeus as 1757 and for Frances of 1754. Since Lucy Kwilosz was born between 1787-1789, this 1788 marriage is reasonable for her parents. Lucy was most likely not born to an earlier marriage because Thaddeus Acela was not a widower. However, there could be a scenario where he had an illegitimate daughter prior to the 1788 marriage.

Philip (Filip), who was the son of Frances Stajonka died at House #118 in 1786. The death record only listed a mother without any mention of a father. This suggests two possible scenarios. The first is that Frances Stajonka was a widow and that is the reason why the father's name was not listed. Only the living parent was mentioned. The second scenario is that Philip was the illegitimate son of an unmarried woman named Frances Staj. It is reasonable to conclude that this is the same Frances Staionka who was a widow at the time of the 1788 marriage to Thaddeus Acela, especially since both events happened at House #118 just two years apart. The feminine names "Stajonka" and "Staionka" are virtually identical. The only question is whether the 'i' or 'j' was an error. This reinforces the possibility that Frances Czarnecki had a husband with a surname similar to Staj who died prior to the 1788 marriage to Thaddeus Acela.

1788 Marriage of Thaddeus Acela and Frances Staionka
Osobnica

One witness was Stanley Acela.

The other witness was Frank, whose surname appears to be Czarny.
This is very similar to Czarnecki, which appears to have been the maiden name of Lucy's mother.

1786 Death of Philip Stajonka
House #118 Osobnica.

It appears that the child was 5 years old (born about 1781)

Note:

The mother's name (Francisca) was listed instead of a father, which is the reason the child's name had a feminine variant

This implies that Francisca was a widow at the time of Philip's death in 1786.
